The World Doctors Orchestra combines the pleasure of fine music with global medical responsibility

Twice a year, around 100 physicians from over twenty nations exchange their white coats for evening attire and perform a benefit concert for people in need of health care. Founder and conductor of the World Doctors Orchestra is Prof. Stefan Willich. He chose his fellow musicians from 300 candidates with outstanding musical credentials.

Although all of the physicians share a passion for music, this is not an end in itself. Indeed, the driving force behind the World Doctors Orchestra is the conviction that neither national borders nor political or economic interests should limit access to adequate health care. With its series of benefit concerts, the World Doctors Orchestra wants to raise awareness of the need for a global social concept in public health based on the premise that health care is a human right and a precondition for human development. An international orchestra as a worldwide "medical ambassador".

The World Doctors Orchestra is a registered non-profit association, independent of any political, religious, or economic influences.

The Philharmonic Choir Berlin is one of Germany's most renowned choirs enjoying a long tradition. Jörg-Peter Weigle is the director since 2003. Since its foundation in 1882, the Philharmonic Choir Berlin has been working with internationally known guest conductors, including Claudio Abbado, Riccardo Chailly, or Vladimir Ashkenazy. Furthermore, numerous radio, TV and CD productions as well as concerts in Europe and lately in Asia document the great versatility of the choir.

Anja Kampe studied at the Musikhochschule Carl Maria von Weber in Dresden as well as at the Conservatory Giuseppe Verdi in Torino. She celebrated a great success in various titleparts all over the world. She is a much sought after concert singer and has worked with many renowned conductors.

Julia Rutigliano studied at the Hochschule für Musik und Theater München at Prof. Daphne Evangelatos and at the Bayrische Theaterakademie August Everding. The mezzosoprano of Italian origin celebrated a great success in various guest engagements and is since 2009 a member of the Theater Braunschweig.

Endrik Wottrich studied violin and voice in Würzburg and at Juilliard School in New York. Shortly following his debut in 1992 Daniel Barenboim engaged him at the Berliner Staatsoper. He is also a talented actor, and has conquered the opera and concert stage worldwide. In 2002 he was appointed professor in Würzburg.

Falk Struckmann has been one of the most prominent singers in the bass-baritone repertoire for many years now. He is a regular guest in all major opera houses. Furthermore, Falk Struckmann appears regularly in concert.

Stefan Willich, director of the Institute for Social Medicine at the Charité University Medical Center in Berlin, is a trained violinist, chamber musician, and conductor. He has participated in conducting workshops under Sergiu Celibidache in Munich, Leon Fleisher in Boston/Tanglewood, and Leon Barzin in Paris. He regularly takes part in conducting activities and chamber music.

The Charité University Medical Center in Berlin is the birthplace of the World Doctors Orchestra. Established in 1710, the Charité is inseparably linked with innovative developments in science, medicine, and nursing, as well as with the names of many outstanding physicians. The Charité is now the largest medical school in Europe.

The proceeds of the concert evening will go to three medical aid projects:

The Berlin Center for the Treatment of Torture Victims (bzfo)

The bzfo offers help to victims of organized state violence suffering from physical ailments, long-term psychological sequelae and psychosomatic disorders.

The bzfo treats children, adolescents, adults and their families from more than 50 countries as well as victims of the former East German secret service, overall more than 500 every year. Out-patient care and day-clinic care is provided through medical, psychiatric and psychotherapeutic treatment offers. The healing process is supported by resource-oriented therapy offers such as art therapy, music therapy, physiotherapy and the Intercultural Healing Garden.

The rehabilitation of torture victims supports them to feel their dignity again and to lead a life which is largely free of the physical and psychological after-effects caused by the torture experience. At the same time it is always a form of resistance against the torturers and their regimes.

The bzfo is independent of any political allegiance.

Centre Intégré de Recherches Biocliniques d'Abidjan (CIRBA)

The bioclinical research center Abidjan is one of the most important research centers in Ivory Coast (West Africa). A team of 41 persons composed of administrative staff, doctors, nurses, psychologists, biologists, researchers and trainers is working on HIV prevention. Its line of patients corresponds to 5 percent of the treated patients in the whole country. Its mission statement is to always be ahead with innovative ideas while permanently calling into question its strategy. CIRBA offers health insurance for infected adult patients and free treatment for children and orphans suffering from HIV.

Hugo-Tempelman-Foundation

In 1994 the Dutch physician Dr. Hugo Tempelman and his wife Liesje founded the Ndlovu Medical Center. Located in the township of Elandsdoorn some 200 kilometers northwest of Johannesburg in Limpopo Province, Ndlovu is the only outpatient clinic in the region. It currently provides healthcare services to approximately 160,000 individuals.

At Ndlovu, all patients receive treatment, regardless of whether they have health insurance. Presently, more than 1500 people with HIV and AIDS are in long-term care at the center, where Dutch, German, and South African physicians are working hand in hand. The results of their pioneering efforts are impressive: the majority of patients have succeeded in achieving an undetectable viral load.

In recent years, an increasing number of development projects have been established around the Ndlovu Medical Center to address the lack of basic infrastructure such as garbage collection and postal services. These efforts, along with numerous informational, educational, and vocational programs, are helping in the development of long-term approaches to the complex issues surrounding HIV and AIDS.
